Louis D.
Brandeis Award

A Message from Your Co - Presidents

Dear Members,

WHOOPEE! HOORAY! WOW! We did it again! Conejo Valley Chapter is one of four chapters nationally to win the National Chapter Of The Year Award.

We met all the criteria including exceeding our Membership and Financial Goals. We have also received the Louis D. Brandeis Award for excellence! We are thrilled and grateful to our hard working Board and our membership. Without all of your participation, this could not have been possible. Now, we hope you have been having a great summer. We are gearing up for a wonderful fall season, filled with more excitement and fun.

We begin the fall with our Annual Membership Luncheon on September 11th with guest Charles Fox, famous as an Emmy award winning and Oscar nominated composer. Please RSVP quickly as this will be a very popular function. Invitations went out in the mail and you should all have them by the time you receive this newsletter. Our fundraising Vice President, Susan Barnett, and her committee are planning a terrific day for you. Your attendance at this luncheon will support Brandeis' Sustaining the Mind campaign. This campaign raises funds for Scientific Research and Scholarship at the University. These funds enhance research in diseases such as Alzheimer's, Parkinson's and ALS. It also makes scholarships available so Brandeis can continue to attract young people with extraordinary potential in an area so vital to the world. We look forward to seeing you at the luncheon to have fun while supporting this worthwhile endeavor. Any extra contributions you or friends and relatives can donate would be appreciated.

Mark your calendars for the next function which will be a

One-Man play that you won't want to miss, scheduled for Friday, October 26th. Marvin Chernoff, well known playwright, who wrote the hit "Carmen Cohen From the Herring Factory" is the author. Joy Krieger, our Small Events chairman is looking forward to seeing you there.

Before long the winter holidays will be here and we want you to save the date for our annual Chanukah Party on December 11th. Cantor Pablo Duek from Temple Etz Chaim will be featured.

Our Study Group Vice Presidents and Chairman, Carol Smith, Bonnie Gould and Rita Zarrell have planned some wonderful new groups and activities for us. The Fall Membership Luncheon is the time to sign up for these. We have close to 60 study groups and look forward to you joining several of them this year. We are so happy to have your participation and enthusiasm in these groups.

We want to thank you, the special members of Conejo Valley Chapter, for all you do to make us the wonderful group of men and women that we are. Not only do we learn and have fun, but we raise money for the Brandeis Libraries, and for future generations of students and for scientific research. Once again, you should be so proud of your accomplishments. Your continued support makes our chapter thrive. We look forward to growing together.

We wish you L'Shana Tova, a Happy, Healthy New Year.

MEMBERSHIP UPDATES

Welcome to a New Year

I am delighted to begin my second term as Membership Vice President. We met our membership goal this year because everyone works together to recruit new members. We all strive to make the new members feel welcome at all events. Remember, an involved member is a continuing member.

I am looking forward to our Membership Luncheon on September 11th. At that time we will expand our horizons by reaching out to find new members. Hopefully this year we will all form meaningful new friendships while we are having fun and learning together.

You can always check www.BrandeisConejo.org at any time to see what is going on with our chapter. Also, please save the date for our next New Members' Coffee, which will be held on Wednesday, October 17th. If you know a prospective member who would like to join Brandeis, e-mail or call me.

CIO REPORT (Harriet Maran)

Rising Star Chris Bedford named director of the Rose Museum

At 35, Bedford will be among the youngest museum directors in the United States when he takes over at the Rose on Sept. 15. Chris' appointment demonstrates Brandeis' commitment to strengthening the Rose as a center of innovation and excellence in the study and exhibition of the visual arts," President Fred Lawrence said. He understands the breadth of our ambition for a great museum as part of a great university.

"I am committed to the idea that art is integral to life, and university art museums are a perfect platform to demonstrate that commitment", Bedford said in a recent telephone conversation from California, where he spent the first part of the Summer at the Getty Leadership Institute for museum directors and curators.

Jonathan Unglaub, incoming chair of the Fine Arts Dept. and a member of the search committee, call Bedford a stellar choice. "Chris' personal connections with major artists, his impressive exhibition record and his reputation as a prolific critic will generate a new, exciting buzz about the Rose beyond the hall of academe."

Sustaining the Mind: Scientific Research and Scholarships

Did you know that Alzheimer's disease alone affects 15 million people worldwide? Maybe you or a family member or friend is one of those people. As the population ages and this number increases, the need for neurological and neurodegenerative disease research becomes increasingly important.

Brandeis University researchers in over 50 laboratories are already pioneering strides in the field of brain-related disorders, including Alzheimer's and Parkinson's diseases. Scientists in the areas of neurodevelopment, neurodevelopment disorders and neurodegeneration are trying to understand the fundamental biological processes underlying brain function. These Brandeis professors and students are dedicated to the basic research that has already led to breakthroughs in our understanding of neurological diseases. Educating tomorrow's scientists is important; that's why investing in scientific research and scholarships at Brandeis is an investment in the future. Plus Brandeis is committed to ensuring that it meets the financial needs of students doing outstanding work in science's fastest-growing arena.

We invite you to join the Brandeis National Committee's "Sustaining the Mind: Scientific Research and Scholarships" campaign to establish an important fund to foster research in neuroscience and neurodegenerative diseases, and to establish an endowed scholarship fund for students in the sciences. The vision and determination of a cadre of loyal supporters like you will help us reach our $3 million campaign goal and will ensure that Brandeis researchers and students are able to excel in their fields of study and make important advancements in neuroscience.

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENTS

What does Rosh Hashanah celebrate?

Rosh Hashanah is many things, but most people know it as the Jewish New Year. In fact, the significance of Rosh Hashanah encapsulates four major and interconnected themes. The holiday is:

- The Jewish New Year
- The Day of Judgment
- The Day of Remembrance
- The Day of Shofar Blowing

Rosh Hashanah is one of two High Holidays in the Jewish religion, the other being Yom Kippur, which occurs 10 days after Rosh Hashanah begins. These two holidays form the High Holiday period, arguably the most significant time in the Jewish year, as it marks the chance for repentance and forgiveness in the eyes of God. During the High Holidays, Jews cleanse their soul and get the chance to start fresh with an unburdened conscience and the intention of doing better in the coming year.

According to the Talmud, God created mankind on the first day of the month Tishri. As such, Rosh Hashanah commemorates the creation of the human race.

Rosh Hashanah, literally translated as "head of the year," is considered the Jewish New Year. But the holiday does not fall on the first day of the first month of the Jewish calendar. Rosh Hashanah begins with the first day of the seventh month, Tishri, and so is something of a symbolic New Year (at least in terms of what most people think of as "New Year's"). It is actually one of several New Year observations that occur throughout the year, and this particular New Year marks the opportunity to put the sins of the previous year in the past, and move forward having received God's forgiveness.

In this way, Rosh Hashanah is the Day of Judgment. One of the most prominent themes of the holiday revolves around the symbolic "Book of Life." A Jew's life depends on whether or not he or she makes the decision to make amends during the High Holiday period through the means of repentance (teshuvah), prayer (tfiloh), and charity (tzedakah). It is a key moment, a time to reflect on past mistakes and resolve in front of God to not repeat them in the coming year.

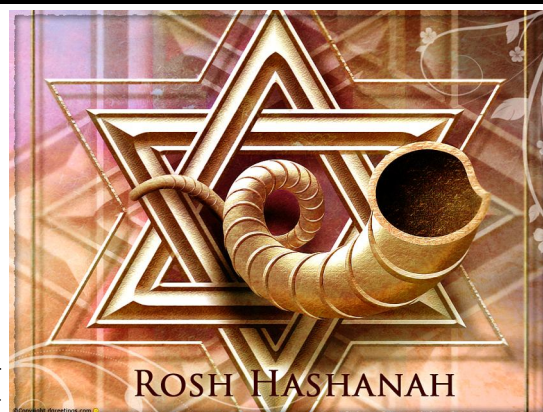

On Rosh Hashanah, Jews often say to one another, "May you be inscribed and sealed in the Book of Life." The High Holiday period is a choice between life and death, righteousness and sin, and those who repent are on their way to being inscribed in the "Book of Life," which brings with it the promise of a good year. The belief is that on Rosh Hashanah, the names are written in the book, and on Yom Kippur (10 days later) the book is sealed. These 10 days are referred to as the Days of Awe.

As the Day of Remembrance, Rosh Hashanah recalls the story of Isaac's near-sacrifice, which Jewish tradition states occurred on the first of Tishri. In this biblical account, God commanded Isaac's father, Abraham, to sacrifice his only son as an offering. Abraham accepts God's command, builds an altar, and prepares to sacrifice his son to prove his obedience and faith in God. At the very last minute, an angel conveying God's wishes stopped Abraham from killing Isaac, and pointed out a ram caught by its horns in a nearby bush. The angel told Abraham to sacrifice the ram in place of Isaac -- Abraham had passed God's test.

This story is recalled on Rosh Hashanah to remind Jews that submission before God is the way to attain God's mercy, and the truly righteous do not question God's will. They do as God commands and are rewarded for their faith.

The last of Rosh Hashanah's main symbols is the shofar, which is a hollowed out ram's horn. The Day of Shofar Blowing has several implications, but there are at least three widely recognized meanings. One is to recall the story of Isaac -- of God sparing his life as a reward for Abraham's faith -- and to remember the ram that was sacrificed in Isaac's place.

Aside from recalling the story of Isaac, the shofar also calls to mind a coronation of sorts. Inasmuch as Rosh Hashanah is a celebration of the creation of human beings, it is also a celebration of God's kingship over human beings. The blowing of the shofar announces and reaffirms God as ruler of all mankind. The "trumpet-like" sound of the shofar also serves to stir the soul of all Jews, to awaken the Jewish people to the omnipotence and omnipresence of God and the chance to receive his mercy through prayer and repentance.

BOOK FUND HAS TRIBUTES FOR EVERY OCCASION

Brandeis Tributes are the perfect way to mark a special occasion or to simply remember someone. Your donations support a worthy cause since Book Fund money goes directly to the Brandeis Library to keep it up to date in all academic areas and continue all of its' services. Note: Your purchase of Book Fund Tributes is 100% tax deductible.

Send a Brandeis Tribute and spread warmth, kindness, caring, love, understanding and friendship. We promise same day service.

IF YOU DON'T HAVE EMAIL . . .

We want to be sure that you receive all of the information about all the activities that our chapter has to offer. Much of our communication is sent via email because it is fast and saves postage. If you do not use email, or if you do not have a computer use THE BUDDY system—call a person in your group who does have a computer to keep up to date.
